

Light From The Hill

MARCH, 2017...The Pastor's Corner...Rev. Norman L. Ramsey, III

Dear Laurel Hill:

I suppose it's a sign of the times. When I went to look up the meaning of Lent I was asked to complete a survey on shopping and buying stuff first. Needless, to say, I still haven't read the article about the meaning of Lent because I abstained from completing the survey. Maybe I learned something without having to read the article itself.

What is the one thing I can do that will best personify God is at work to simplify and clarify my witness during Lent? I'm sure it doesn't include shopping for more stuff. What do I choose to do with my time? What are the things that concern me? Let's make this Lenten season a time when we ask the Lord for a renewed zeal to call and show compassion to those who have become the prodigal.

Our month's sermon theme is "Come Home". That's the invitation we want to give to people. It's also the invitation that governs our attitude and attention with people. How can our demeanor and deeds, our conversations and conduct be an appeal from God through us for each person we meet to come home to the Lord?

I remember the agonizing tears, the turmoil in my stomach, and the pull back and forth on my will. What should I do? I didn't stand at a crossroads. I stood at the end of the road or, at least, the end of the driveway. Should I leave home and run away to something else? I was twelve years old. I had all of my essential belongings tied up in my knapsack. My shoes were on my feet and I was just one step away from hitting the road.

But, thankfully I never ran away any further than that, though I considered it many times. I dread to think how difficult the journey back would be unless I knew I would be welcome and I could somehow make up for or overcome going away in the first place.

This one thing I know: God's invitation to us is "come home"! Come, all who are weary and heavy laden down and I will give you rest. (Matthew 11: 28) Come, though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be white as snow. (Isaiah 1: 18) Come, though you have wandered far, far away, I will lead you home. I will not leave you as orphans. I will come to you. (John 14: 18)

Love you very much,

Norman Ramsey

Thanks again for everyone's prayers for healing and help! We look forward to all the special ways God will work during the month of March: our Mission Dinner & Auction, Girl Scout Sunday, the Kean University Choir, and the Virginia Choristers, just to name a few ways we will be blessed.
